

HOTS! SOUNDSCAPE RADIO presents:

Els Viaene & Yves De Mey : Vibrant Particles

For already nine years now Yves and i have been very closely following each other's work, not only as friends but also as sound colleagues and through mutual criticism.

We both have a very different approach to sound but we always had the same passionate ears looking for new and adventurous music. Our trip together started with the radio show "Core Audio" which ran for 4 years, but it was only earlier this year we had our first live performance together.

Being invited to do a performance for an exhibition opening we locked ourselves up in the studio and started improvising with both our own musical language. Yves used his modular analog synthesizer rig and i used a combination of processed and non-processed field recordings and a series of EM-recordings. For this podcast we present our very first recording, a session that gave us a taste to put our musical minds together more often.

Yves De Mey ---> www.knobsounds.com

Els Viaene ---> www.aurallandscape.net

HOTS! radio ---> www.hots-radio.info